(Note: Windows XP contains its own unzip software, see Windows XP help and search for "extract" for more information on this feature)

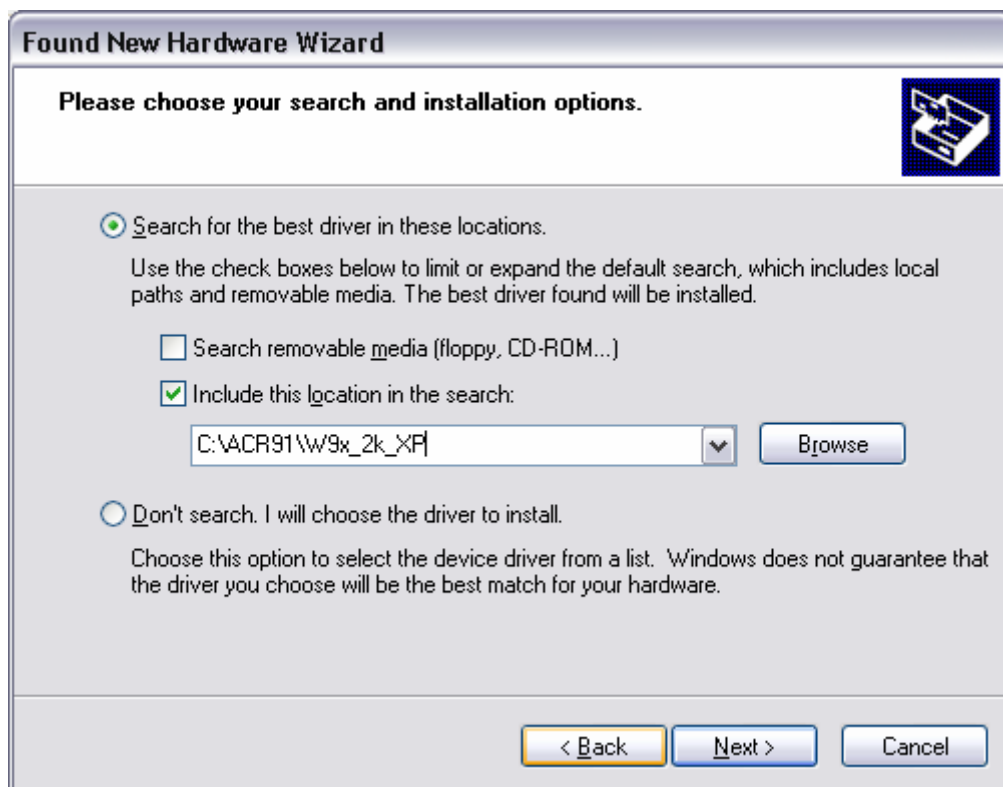

Insert the smart card reader in a free PCMCIA slot of your portable.

When the "Found new hardware wizard" opens choose "No, Not at this time" if you are asked "Can Windows connect to Windows Update to search for software". Click next.

Choose, "Install from a list or specific location". Click next.

Choose, "Search for the best driver in these locations", and select "Include this location in the search:"

Click browse, and select the C:\ACR91\W9x_2k_XP folder.

Click next.

If you receive a message that the drivers are not tested by Microsoft, just click: "Continue Anyway"

Wait until the drivers are installed and click finish.

If you are asked to reboot your computer, reboot.
